

PANTHER

DEDICATION

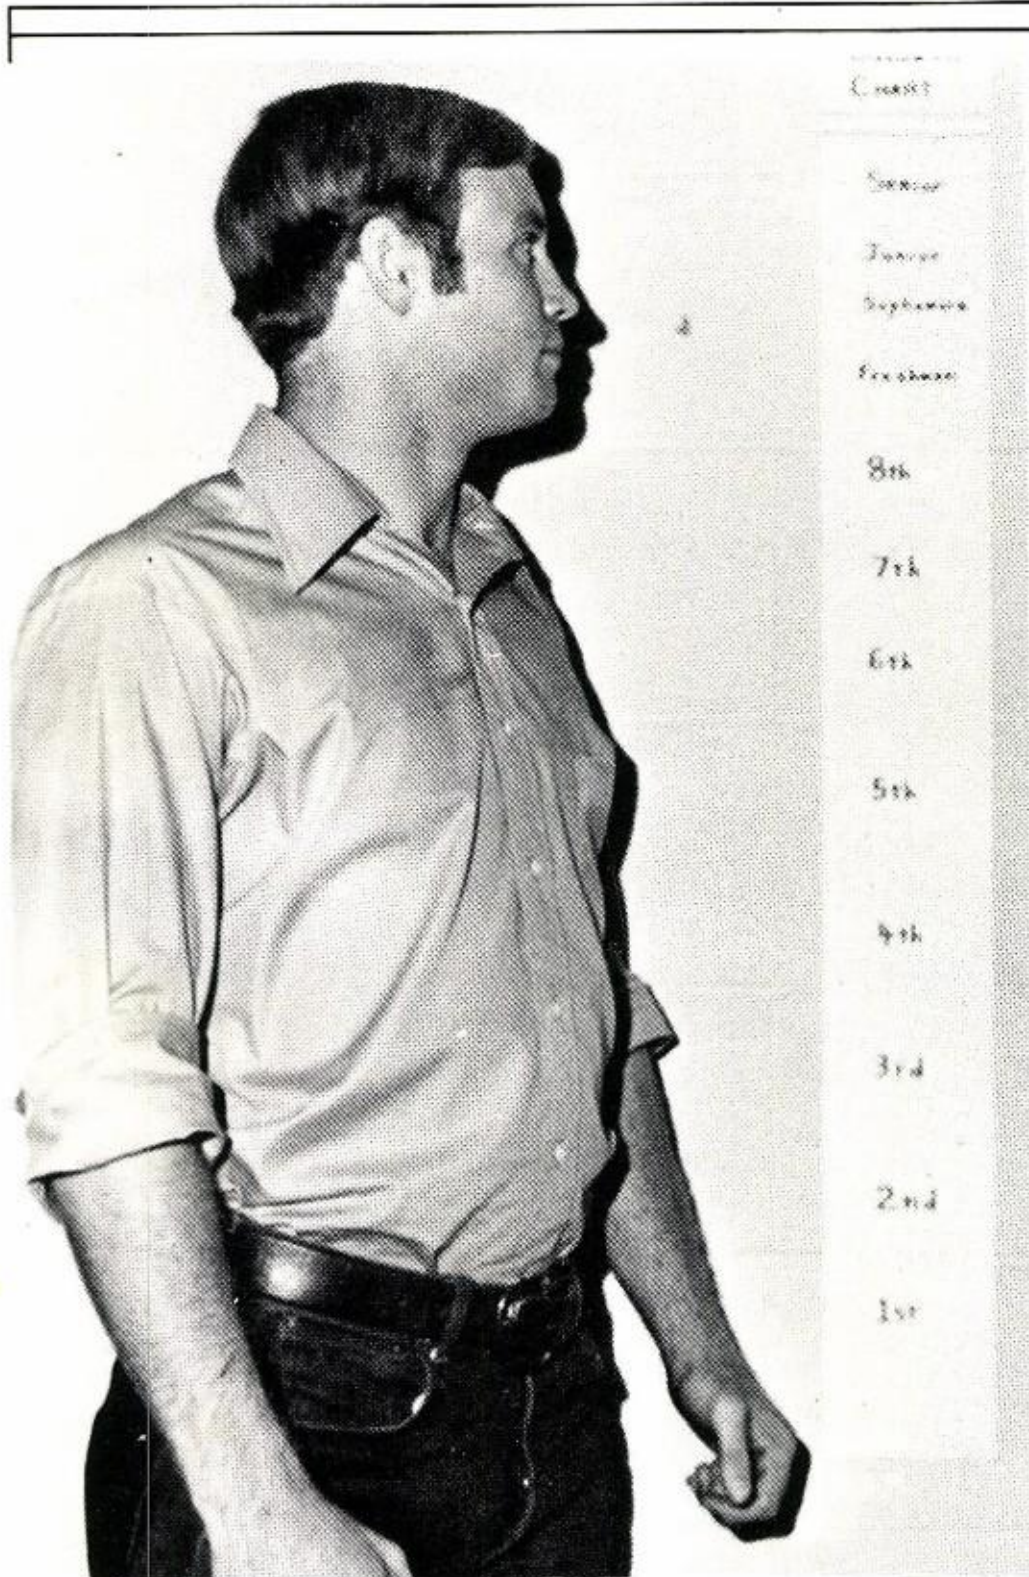

To a person who has been an inspiration in the lives of so many boys and girls of Spring Hill High School; who has caused so many of her students to strive for greater achievements in subject matter and proper action at all times; who has been a tower of strength in this community in all phases of services to so many who never knew or acknowledged the deeds; who has broadened the horizon of her students by being the prime factor in so very many senior trips to worthwhile places and giving them the benefit of her world-wide travels, we, the Annual Staff and her friends gratefully dedicate the 1971 Spring Hill Yearbook.

Space does not permit the listing of her contributions to the good of the students, school and community of Spring Hill, but this will in a small way express the esteem and appreciation to such a lovely person as our MISS ANNE DAVIS.

Foreword

Growth is Evident

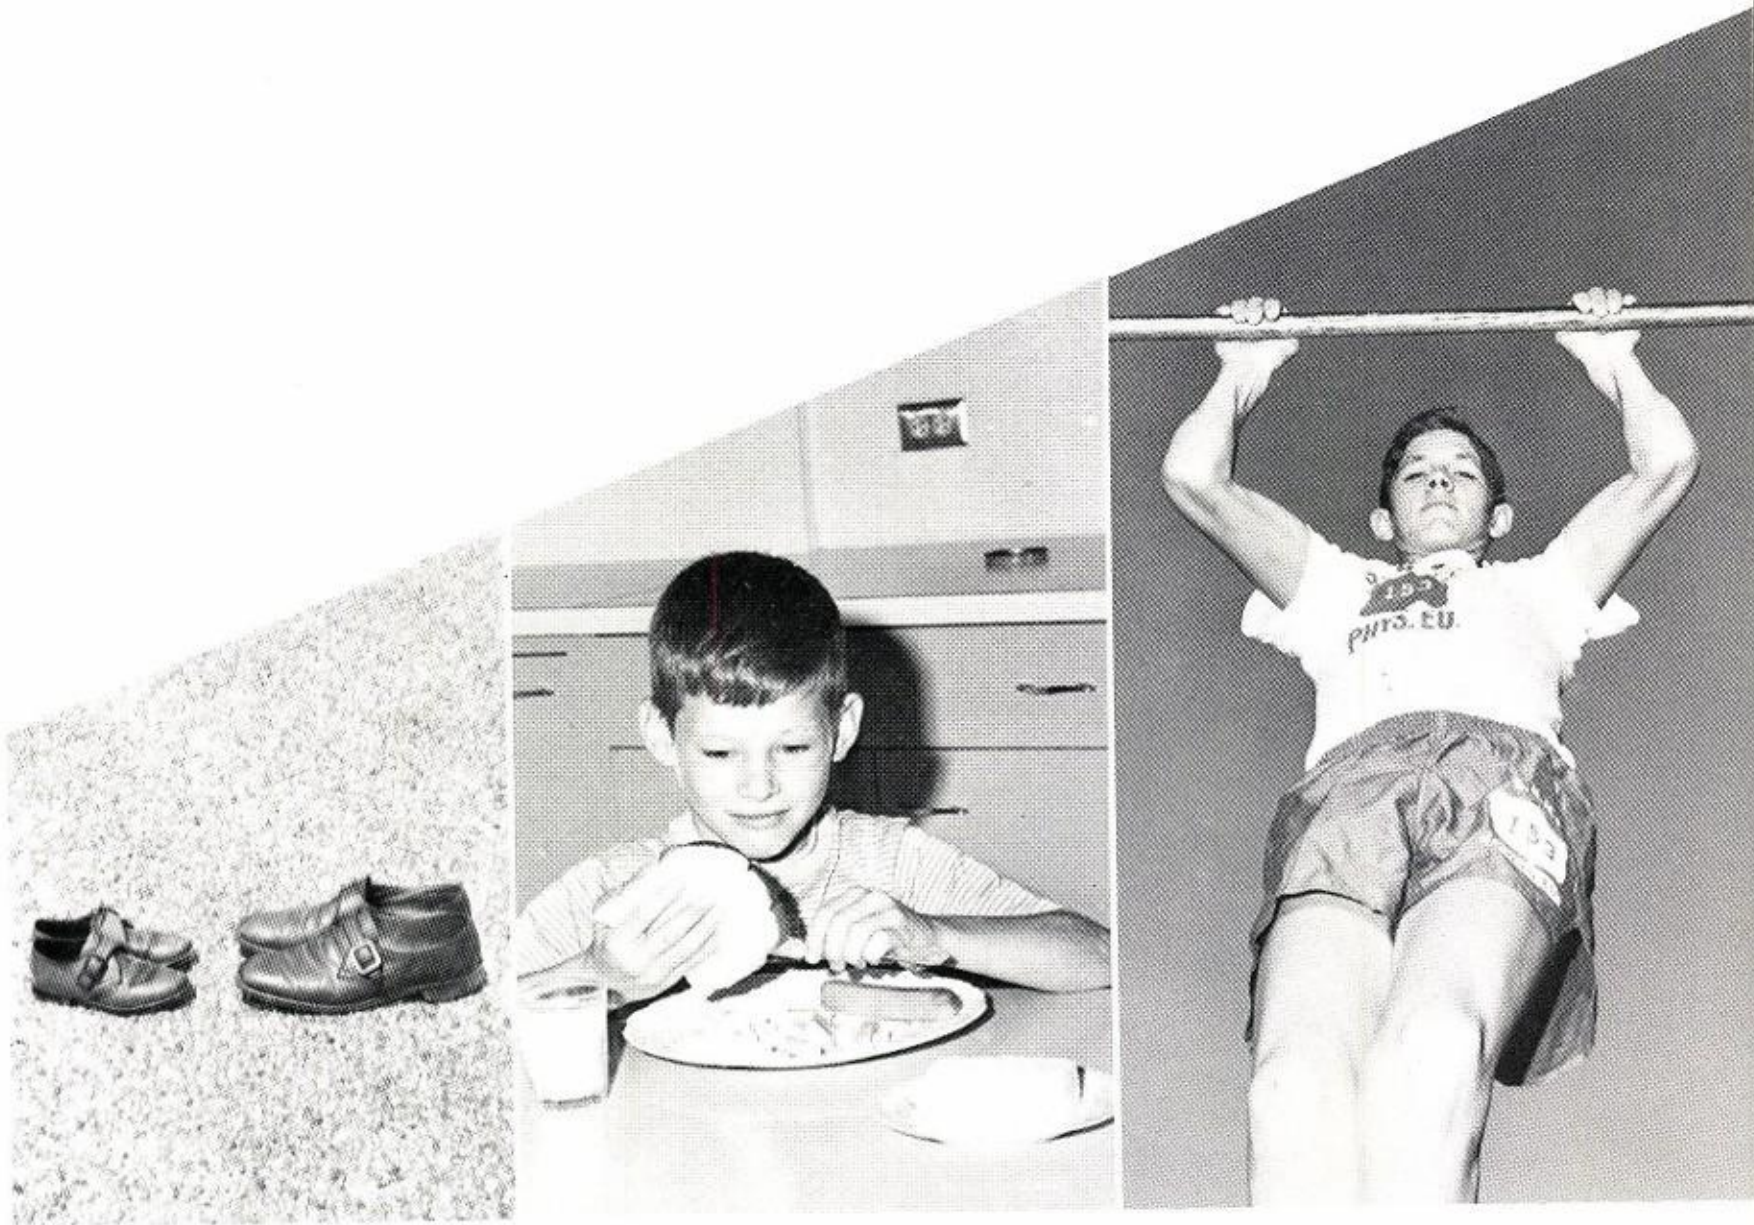

It seems that just about everything is growing. The population is growing, the cities are growing, and schools are growing. Spring Hill is no exception. People are moving into our community faster than ever before. The Spring Hill School has had to expand greatly to accommodate the increasing number of students.

We, the students at Spring Hill, are growing not only in numbers, but in many other ways. The school is a place where we come to grow in maturity, because we associate with other people. We learn to think for ourselves and to make decisions.

Growing up has its bright spots, like passing an English test, making a 1st place in band, making a perfect angel food cake, and making the varsity squad in basketball. Growing up also has its disasters, too, like learning that our parents found a letter in the mailbox that was sent by the school, learning that only one point was needed for a trip to regional, and having our best friend steal our date to the athletic banquet.

These are all part of growing up, and each one of us must grow in our own way. Right now, we might be wishing we were grown already, but the time will come when we will be wishing we had stopped to enjoy our youth.

Buildings Provide Space for Growth

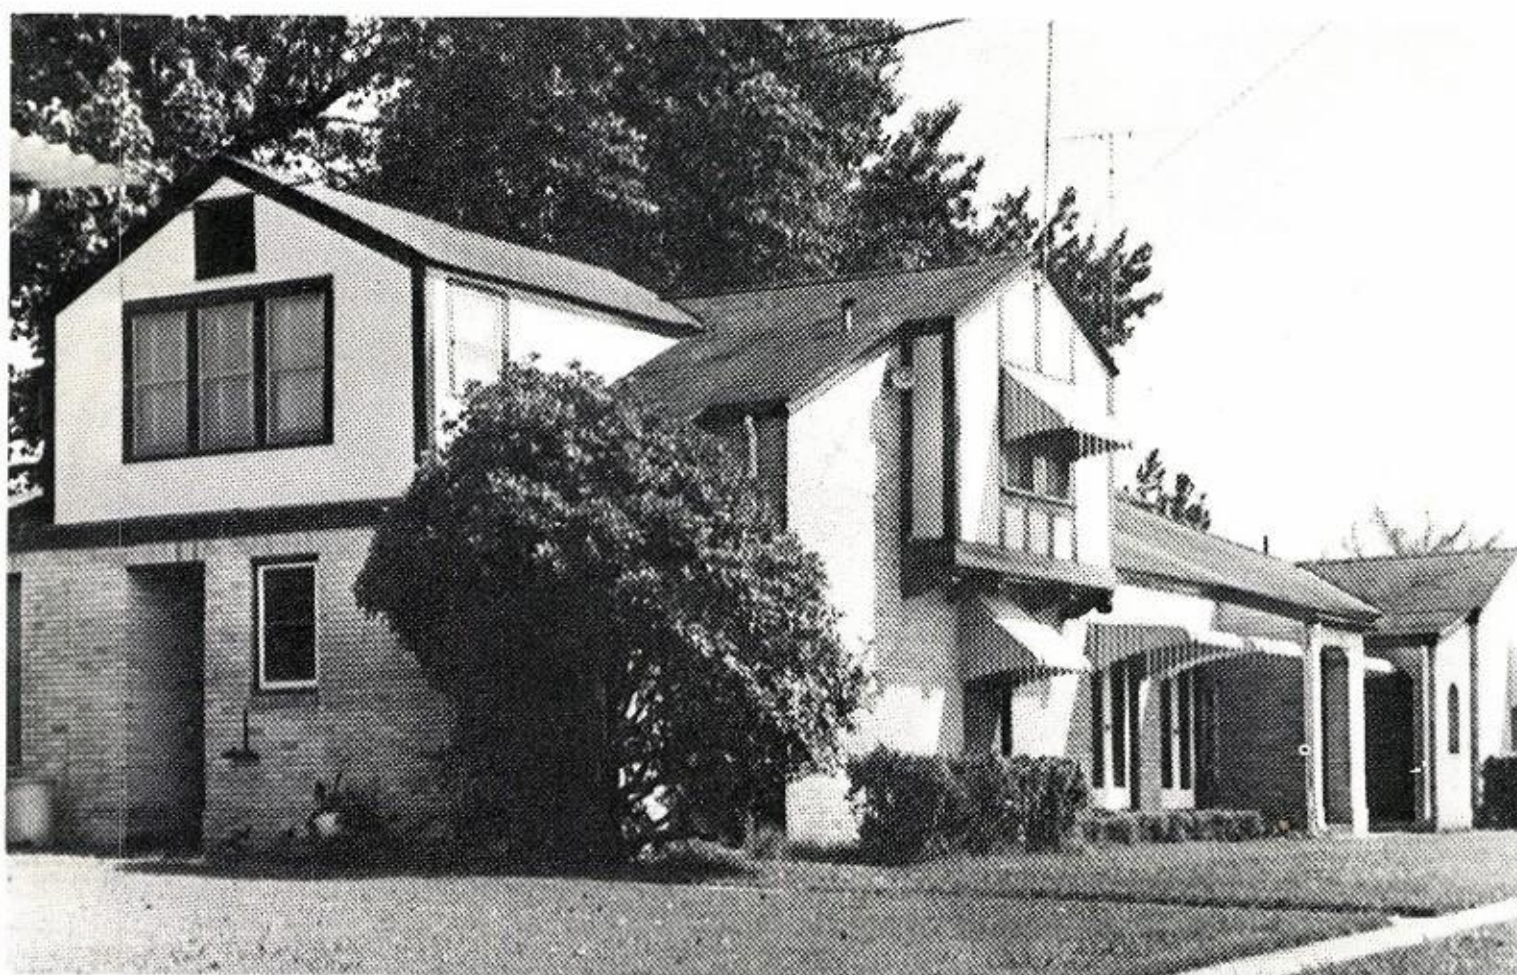

The air-conditioned high school houses the band hall, shop, and academic class rooms, plus administration and tax offices.

The new field house contains storage for all athletic equipment. It also has a first aid center.

The library wing contains high school reference volumes, newspapers, magazines, study carrels, television sets, and a book repair section.

A duplex teacherage houses the superintendent, the principal, and their families.

Administration Supervises

Growth

Our administration handles many problems concerning school life and activities. They do their best to make school more enjoyable and strive hard to make Spring Hill High School the best school in Texas. Through the efforts and duties of these people our school has been awarded many compliments for having the cleanest facilities around. Our students have also been complimented on their neatness, behavior, and politeness. They provide for the growth of student body both physically and intellectually.

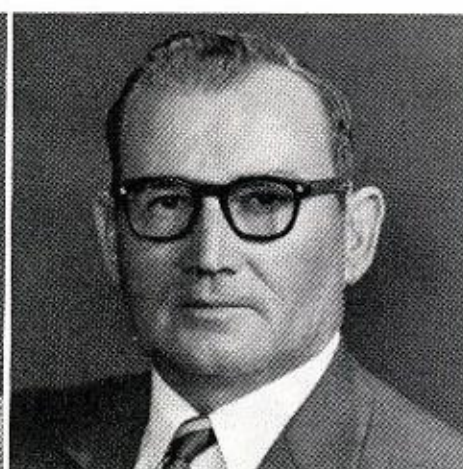

The administrators spend many hours planning budgets, bussing, and new equipment. They hire able teachers, provide the students with the best equipment possible, and send both teachers and students to workshops, conventions, and lectures.

Superintendent and Assistants Keep Busy

MR. LOUIE L. WILLIAMSON
Superintendent

The superintendent supplies information, collects taxes, formulates policies, maintains public relations, and takes a keen interest in the students. He is a friend to all. He knows the names of all kindergarteners, he listens to the problems of the intermediates, and encourages the high school students. With the approval and help of the school board he provides and hires teachers. He rejoices in the merits of all.

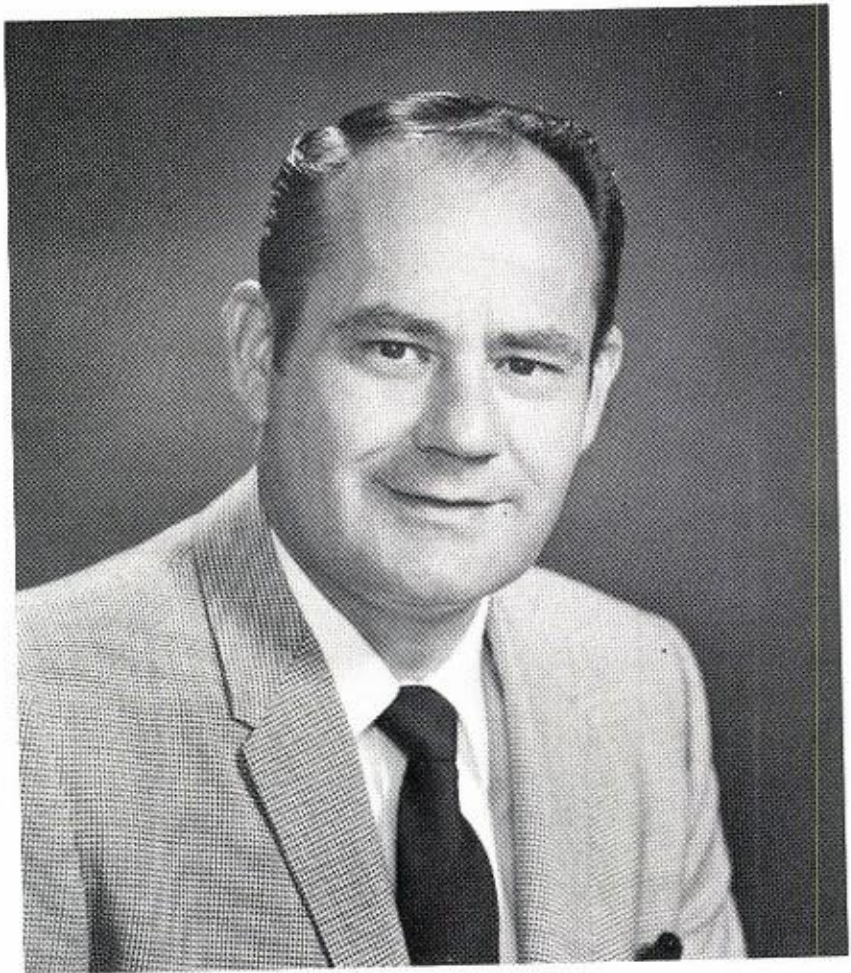

MRS. HENRIETTA LUPFER
School Secretary

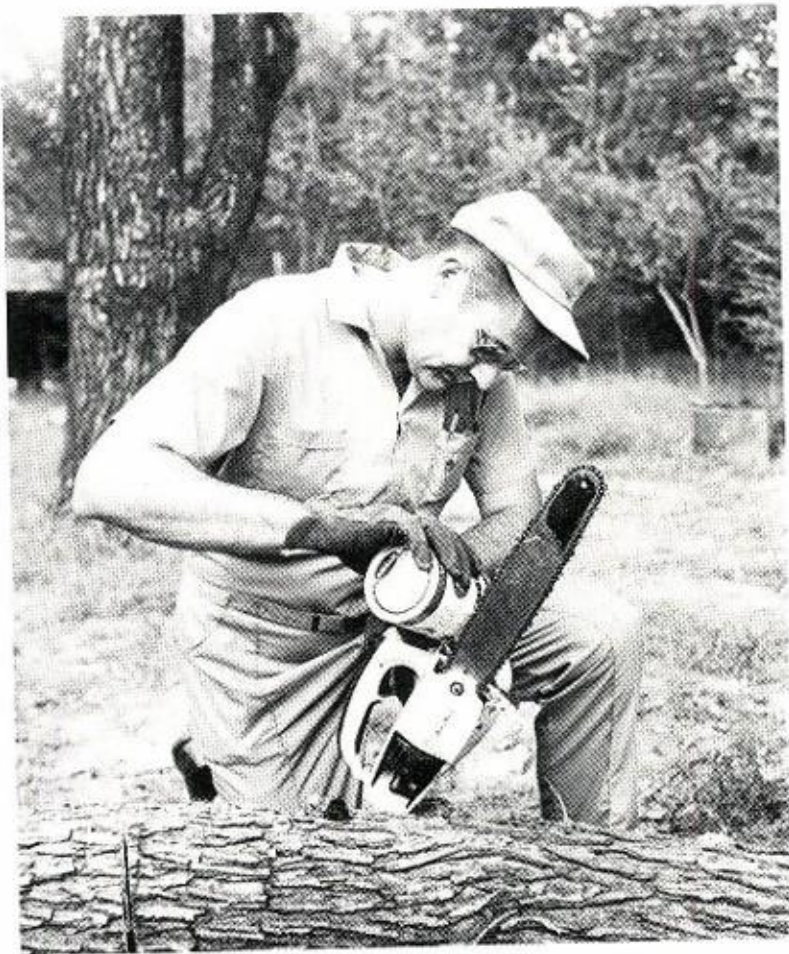

Mr. Williamson works at his hobby of making Christmas ornaments from tin cans.

Principals and Assistants

Mr. Dowell, the High School principal, is kept busy overseeing student activities, directing faculty and other school personnel, and keeping order in the High School. He is a friend and counselor of every student. He speaks to each person he meets in office or hall; he offers encouragement or warning as needed.

PHYSICAL ACTIVITIES

Spring Hill offers many different physical activities to all students. Football is the main event in the fall, basketball is the school's winter sport, and track is the center of attention in early spring. Other sports such as tennis, swimming, volley ball, and badminton are played throughout the year. The coaching staff for these sports this year consists of two women and four men.

Captains and Coaches provide leadership.

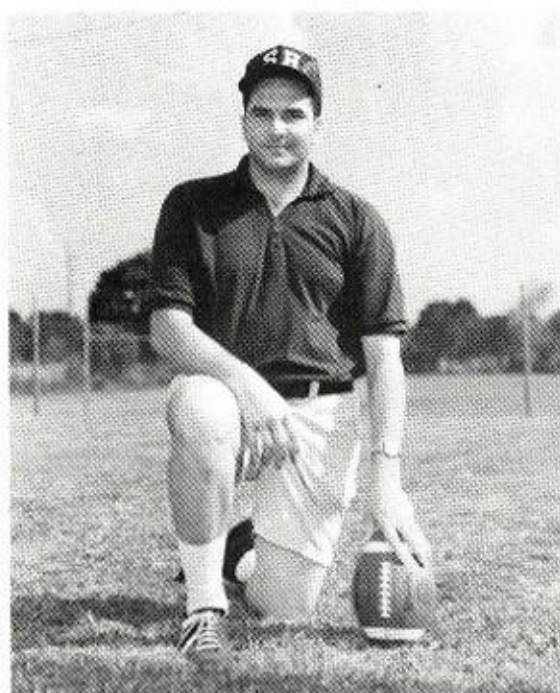

Panthers finished the year's football season with six wins: Rains, Tatum, New Diana, Troup, Sabine, Overton and four losses: Carlisle, Arp, White Oak, Union Grove. Total season points for Spring Hill were 132; for opponents 106. Throughout the year the team spirit remained at a high level.

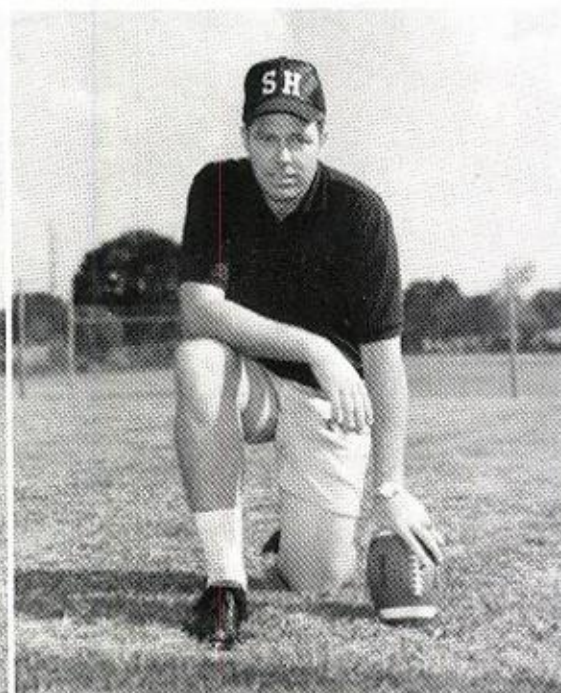

Tri-captains Mike Pritchett, William Threadgill, and Clarence McBride provide spirited leadership.

The campus of Spring Hill School

Editor Tom Fox piloted the plane and yearbook photographer Mike Carroll shot this picture to show growth of school from one-room building to present complex. Kindergarten building is not shown.

Farewell to Spring Hill

As the school year of 1970-71 comes to a close, we seniors of Spring Hill High let our minds drift back over the last twelve years and remember how we have grown, not just physically, but mentally.

We remember the paper wad and red hot fights from our junior high days, the first year in high school, the first real date to a banquet, and our much adored sports' awards.

As we thumb through this yearbook many years from now, we will once again think over those years, and realize how much more we have grown. For a yearbook is like an excellent wine; it becomes more valuable and cherished as the years go by.
